Friday	Eli

Circle the answer.

Nobody did it, because yesterday was Sunday and nobody was at school.

Eli did it, because Friday is the last row on the roster.

Put a tick on the name of the last person who had a turn.

Say which day that was.

Today is Friday.

Tomorrow is Saturday. Work out whose turn it is tomorrow.

Circle the answer.

There is no turn tomorrow, because tomorrow is Saturday and the roster has no Saturday on it.

Ana, because Monday is the first row on the roster.

Put a tick on the name of the next person to have a turn, when the roster starts again.

Say which day that will be.

You have not used this roster before. Today is Thursday.

Circle both names whose turn it is today.

Monday	Finn and Gus
Tuesday	Hana and Ivy
Wednesday	Jo and Kai
Thursday	Lin and Mo
Friday	Nia and Oli

Circle how you found them.

I found Thursday first, then read along that row.

I looked for a name I knew.

Put a tick on both names whose turn it was yesterday.

Say why the method works on a roster you have never seen.

One roster, three different days.

Work each one out from the day first.

Today is Tuesday. Circle the name of the person whose turn it is tomorrow.

Today is Monday. Put a tick on the name of the person who did it yesterday, if there is one.

Today is Friday. Draw a cross on the name of the person whose turn it is tomorrow, if there is one.

Only one of those three has a name as the answer. Circle the two that do not.
