

1

Touch each card and say the day

Lay the five school day cards out in order and sit beside the student so you are both reading left to right.

"Touch each card and say the day with me."

Say the five days yourself while the student touches each card, then hand them back one day at a time.

2

Do you come to school on this day

Two hoops on the floor with the labels beside them, and the day cards handed over one at a time rather than all at once.

"Do you come to school on this day? Put it in the hoop."

Sort Saturday and Sunday together first, so the weekend hoop is settled, then hand over the school days one at a time.

3

Move my finger past Sunday

Lay the seven cards in a circle and rest your finger on Sunday, so the student only has to move it on one place.

"My finger is on Sunday. Move it to the next day."

Walk your finger round the circle twice yourself, saying each day aloud, then hand it back.

This activity should be done with the cards handled one at a time. Cut out the seven days and the blank card.
